

NECA Statement on the H.R. 3062: Promoting Cross-border Energy Infrastructure Act

Marco Giamberardino, Senior Vice President of Public and Government Affairs with National Electrical Contractors Association (NECA), released the following statement in support of the Promoting Cross-border Energy Infrastructure Act:

“NECA applauds Rep. Fedorchak’s leadership on H.R. 3062, the Promoting Cross-border Energy Infrastructure Act, and appreciates her commitment to modernizing energy infrastructure permitting.

By streamlining approvals for cross-border electric transmission and pipeline projects, this legislation enables more timely project delivery and ensures stable workloads for NECA contractors nationwide.

NECA urges swift passage of the Promoting Cross-border Energy Infrastructure Act.”

The National Electrical Contractors Association (NECA) is the voice of the $255 billion electrical construction industry that brings power, light, and communication technology to buildings and communities across North America. NECA’s national office and 118 local chapters advance the industry through advocacy, education, research, and standards development.
